

No hidden responders: spread matches within-person shuffling

If advertisements helped some people and hurt others, the observed spread would sit right of the null. Condition labels are permuted among each participant's own five conversations, 20,000 times.